

Centers for Disease Control & Prevention Rabies Laboratory

Mailstop G33, 1600 Clifton Rd NE, Atlanta, GA 30329, United States

Report Status: Final

Common Name: Fox_Red  Public Health / International Submitter:  Wildlife Veterinary Services Alaska Department of Fish and Game	Scientific Name: Vulpes vulpes Original Submitter:
Wildlife Veterinary Services	Original Submitter:
1300 College Road Fairbanks, Alaska 99701 United States
Animal ID:	Animal ID:
Alt. Animal ID:	Alt. Animal ID:
Specimen ID:	Specimen ID: 2013-082
Alt. Specimen ID:	Alt. Specimen ID:

Material submitted:

Specimen Source: BrainSpecimen source site:

CDC Specimen ID: 2013223541

Test order name: Rabies Confirmatory Testing

(Animal)

Date sent to CDC:

Specimen collected Date:

CDC Local ID: A13-4513

Date Received: 7/18/2013Date Reported: 9/4/2013

Revision History: No previous reports.

CDC Unique ID:  ${\bf ZZY8TZ8W}$

Centers for Disease Control & Prevention Rabies Laboratory

Animal Name: None Provided Sex: Birthdate: Age:

Common Name: Fox_Red Scientific Name: Vulpes vulpes

Public Health / International Submitter IDs

Animal ID: Alt. Animal ID: Specimen ID: Alt. Specimen ID:

CDC Specimen ID: 2013223541 CDC Unique ID: ZZY8TZ8W CDC Local ID: A13-4513

Test Performed Test Results

Direct Fluorescent Antibody Test Rabies virus antigen was detected by the standard direct fluorescent antibody (DFA) test.

Antigenic Typing Antigenic typing with monoclonal antibodies to the nucleoprotein of rabies virus demonstrated a pattern consistent with a rabies virus variant found in (Arctic foxes) Vulpes lagopus.

DISCLAIMER: Test results are reliant on the samples received for testing.

Approved by: Lillian Orciari MT MS

Ph: 404-639-1050 Fax: 404-639-1058 E-mail: lao0@cdc.gov

Date Printed: 9/4/2013 CLIA ID # 11D0668319 Page 2 of 2